The Election.

The people of Ohio rendered their verdict yesterday, finding in favor of Frank B. Willis and against Governor Cox. In favor of Warren G. Harding and against Timothy S. Hogan.

At the same time three of the proposed amendments to the constitution, prohibition, equal suffrage, and taxation were defeated by decisive majorities and at 4 o'clock this morning the fate of the home rule amendment was reported by the Associated Press to be in doubt.

The Democrats have elected a governor in Massachusetts, senators in Maryland, Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee. While the Democrats will maintain a majority in both branches of congress the size of the majority in the lower house is reduced. The Republicans have elected governors in New York and Wisconsin, while Senator Penrose (Republican) was re-elected by the voters of Pennsylvania.

In Ohio the Democratic congressional delegation is reduced from eighteen to fourteen, among the successful congressmen being Hon. William A. Ashbrook of this district.

Owing to the heavy vote and the time required to count the state counts, judicial and amendment ballots returns from many counties are incomplete and it is as yet impossible to state whether or not J. H. Miller or J. B. Carson has been elected state senator from this district. Returns on the judicial ticket are so incomplete as to make it impossible to name the successful aspirants at this time.

Incomplete returns from Licking county make local results uncertain, but the probability is that the Democrats have elected the auditor, treasurer, clerk of courts, surveyor and recorder. It will take the complete returns to determine the winners.

The causes of the political cataclysm are not at once apparent, and it will take further analysis of the locality of returns to formulate a satisfactory explanation of what may be termed a landslide. In Ohio there was a desperate fight made upon Governor Cox for an alleged attempt upon his part to centralize power into the hands of the chief executive, while at the same time, the rural communities had a misconception of the intent and operation of the Warner law, which was cultured by Republican politicians until it became a ferment of discontent, and a belief that the farm-owners especially were being deprived of the sacred privilege of self-government, with a sacrifice of the principle to the idea of being governed from the seat of gubernatorial power.

It will be interesting to see what the new state administration will attempt to do, what laws of the Cox administration, if any, it will repeal, and what measures will take their place.

Some of the greatest humanitarian laws upon the statute books of any state were enacted by the present administration and it remains to be seen whether the Republicans will disturb them.

While both the general and local result is a surprise and a disappointment to Democracy the party that has existed since the days of Jefferson is by no means disgraced at temporary defeat but will buckle on its armor and be ready for the next campaign.

Freedom of Debate.

Some people say that money can buy anything, that one can order a court decision or an election, just as one can buy a suit of clothes. They say newspaper support is for sale on the basis of advertising space. Also that college professors see a new light in matters of economics when donors come around with liberal views about endowment funds.

Major Wiener, an English graduate of Harvard, has told that university that it will miss a gift of $10,000,000 from his estate, if it continues to harbor Prof. Munsterburg, who has been making such bitter attacks on the allies in the European war.

There are some things money can't buy. Even the most pathetic little rag of a country newspaper may have as much independence as the millionaire publisher. The editor's desk may be a dusty catch-all of musty papers, his office unswayed, his type battered. But that smoochy sheet where he speaks his editorial opinion is the one square foot on the planet where he is lord and master. Cash is no equivalent for his individuality. And the country editor has no monopoly of this independence.

Similarly a college plant and equipment may be a joke. The half-paid faculty may be rusty, seedy, threadbare. It may be an institution hoary with age and rich in art and architecture, yet needing millions to enable it to cope with modern life. Whatever the institution, it almost invariably cherishes its aloofness from the world of go-lars and barters. It is one free spot where all opinions can contribute to the search of truth as the final standard of value.

The American people do not seem to sympathize much with Prof. Munsterburg's point of view. That is immaterial. Few of them would care to discipline him by depriving him of his job. It would have too obvious encouragement to the many interests that would find college opinion useful in their business.

The Advocate is greatly gratified at the many kind expressions from Democrats, Republicans and Progressives. This newspaper has been complimented for having conducted an absolutely clean campaign, and for having fairly presented the issues of the battle of the ballots.

High School "Frats"

Every American high school girl who is a member of a Greek letter fraternity must resign, or she will be barred from such fraternities if she goes to college. This is the vote passed by the Pan-Hellenic Congress in New York.

The high school fraternities are an expression of the desire of many young folks of that age, particularly girls, to be grownups. Formerly, at that age, they played dolls. Now there are cut flowers and evening gowns. Dancing school takes the place of lying around the barn. The normal boy should be much more attracted to the washerwoman's son than to the offspring of the leading capitalist. The former knows where berries and birds nests can be found. The latter has offensive and embarrassing habits of blacking his shoes.

As people advance in their pretensions, social lines descend even to childhood. As the washerwoman's daughter would not help your girl get invitations to dances, she is an undesirable. Here starts the high school fraternity movement, segregating those of like station in life. In many cities, no child from a family that lives in a flat can enter the best secret societies. For the "barb," or barbarian non-frat girl, there are no introductions and no partners at dances.

The public school should mix up all kinds of people. The rich man's son learns how to give and take on even terms with the son of the coal-heaver. When he gets into business or politics, the latter may be a valuable friend. Similarly Coal-heaver, Jr., can learn much from the offspring of Croesus. He will find that it is not a handicap, either in baseball or in life, to comb your hair.

The fraternities seem now to be agreeing that high school pupils are too young for this society life. They charge it with promoting snobishness and cliques. Fraternities have value in college, but the high school girl and boy do not need these grown-up manners.

The down town crowd was unusually large Tuesday night. Everybody was anxious for the election news.

A Community Trust.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.) Cleveland is developing a new agency of progress, the charge of which has been placed in the hands of Mr. Allen T. Burns, for the past five years secretary of the Pittsburg Civic Commission. The organization of which he will have charge is known as the Cleveland Foundation, and its purpose is somewhat loosely indicated by calling it a community trust.

The organization is framed in accordance with ideas worked out by F. H. Goff, president of the Cleveland Trust company. These consisted mainly in framing a plan by which people of means could make bequests to the trust for the advancement of the public welfare of Cleveland. Although the plan was formed less than a year ago, it is said that the total of bequests written into wills is nearly $20,000,000, and as some testators have died, a considerable fund is now available.

The foundation will be governed by five trustees appointed by the Cleveland Trust company, the mayor of the city, the probate judge of the county and the United States district judge. Its object is stated to be the social, industrial and civic improvement of Cleveland. The first work, for which over $100,000 is available, is in the nature of a comprehensive survey of Cleveland to study social conditions and agencies, public and private. The work to follow will be largely guided by the results of the survey.

Other cities will watch the progress of this experiment with great interest. If it proves an effective agency the example may be widely followed. Of course the success of any such work will depend as largely on the individual energy and judgment with which it is administered as on the plan of its formation. But the establishment of an endowed trust to use all means for industrial and civic advancement is certainly an idea well worth trying.

Stevenson's Cup of Misery. R. L. Written in hemorrhages, written in sickness, written torn by coughing, written when my head swam for weakness, and for so long, it seems to me, I have won my wages and recovered my glove. I am better now—have been, rightly speaking, since first I came to the Pacific—and still few are the days when I am not in some physical distress. And the battle goes on—ill or well is a trifle so that it goes. I was made for a contest, and the powers have so willed that my battlefield should be this duncy, inglorious one of the bed and the physic bottle. At least I have not failed, but I would have preferred a place of trumpeting and the open air over my head."

Tennyson's Uniform.

The late Sir Arthur Sullivan used to relate this reminiscence of Tennyson.

"The first time Tennyson came to dine at our house," said Sir Arthur, "the door was opened to him by a parlor maid who had been with us many years and was like one of the family. She was fairly staggered by the appearance of the visitor, who always wore a deep, broad brimmed black felt hat and black cane, which made him look exactly like a conspirator in an Italian play. When the guests had departed the maid said to me:

"Was that really the great poet, Master Arthur? Well, he do wear clothes."

"Of course," I replied with subtle irony, "all poets do. Besides, you forget that he is a poet laureate."

"She hadn't forgotten it, for she had never known it. After a slight pause she said thoughtfully:

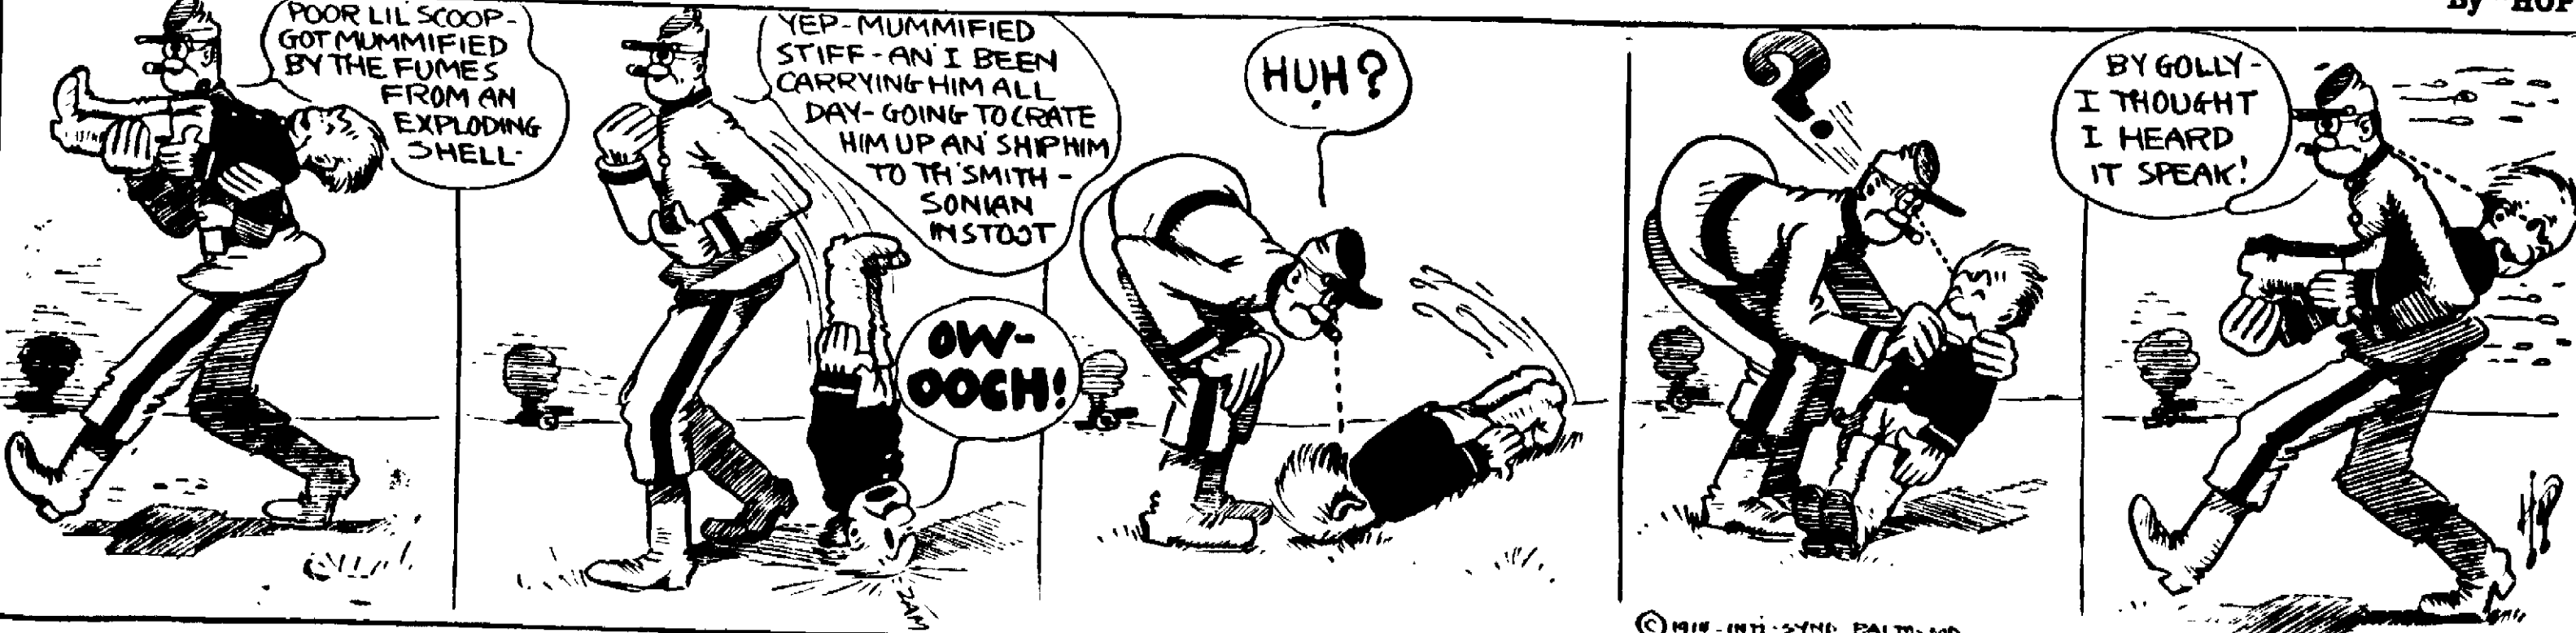

"What a queer uniform!"

SUBJECTS OF POWERS HELD AS HOSTAGES

OF OTTOMAN EMPIRE UNTIL DEFINITE ASSURANCES ARE GIVEN OF TURKISH SAFETY.

British Will Allow Them to Leave as They Please—United States Ambassador's Work.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
 Washington, Nov. 3.—Until definite guarantees are given by Russia, England and France for the protection of Turkish subjects, the Ottoman empire will hold practically as hostages all the subjects of the triple entente powers within its territory.
 This was revealed in a cablegram from American Ambassador Morgenthau to the state department here, dated Constantinople, last Sunday. Assurances already had been given by the British ambassador that Turks in Egypt as well as the British empire generally would be permitted to leave if they desired. The dispatch indicated, however, that the American ambassador who is co-operating with the Italian ambassador in charge of Russian interests, is confronted with a delicate task. A special train which was to have left Sunday night with pan-stricken British and French subjects was detained by order of the Turkish minister of war. Mr. Morgenthau said he hoped to persuade the war office to release the train on Monday.

Humanizing Geometry.
 I used to try to work up a factitious enthusiasm for geometry by naming angle A Abraham, B Benjamin, C Cornelius, and so on; side AB then became Abraham, side BC Benjamin, side AC Cornelius, and the perimeter Abraham Benjamin—that last a name of Miltonic sonorosity, mouth filling and perfectly pronounceable if one scanned it as an entelestic trochee tetrameter. Although I never had the courage to introduce them to my teachers, I looked upon the Abrahamian family with some affection until one day I tried to name the perimeter of a dodecagon, when I came to the conclusion that it would require less time to learn the proposition by heart than to learn the name, and from that date I gave up all attempt to infuse an adventitious interest into Legendre and simply memorized him.—Atlantic

Boiled Clothes.
 Some housekeepers believe in boiling the clothes before rubbing, and some do not believe in boiling them at all. Others believe that clothes are made yellow by boiling. Boiling does not make clothes yellow. Clothes become yellow when they are improperly rinsed, when there is iron in the water or a deposit of iron is formed from the boiler or by the use of an impure soap. On the other hand, boiling takes an important part in the dissolution and removal of the soap, which expert housekeepers, who know that the soap must be removed if the clothes are to keep their color and wearing qualities, will recognize as an indisputable reason why the clothes should be boiled—and boiled after rubbing. In these days of sterilizing it seems illogical to accept as clean unboiled clothes.—Woman's Home Companion.

Body Mixed.
 A booking agent for a Chautauque bureau visited a small town. He called on a man who said that in order to introduce a Chautauque it would be necessary to see the most prominent man of the town. Together they called on the "first citizen" and the booking agent was introduced.
 "Mr. Jones," said he, "I called to see you in regard to a Chautauque."
 "It won't do a bit of good," spoke up the prominent citizen. "My wife and I have looked over all the catalogues carefully and have already decided on another machine."—Everybody's.

No Place Like Home.
 A benighted looking floorwalker in one of our large department stores was standing in the aisle with a pained and faraway look in his eyes. Suddenly a woman bustled up back of him and demanded, "Where are the children's dresses, sir?"
 "In the bottom bureau drawer, Maria," said the floorwalker, hastily turning around. And then he fled.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Many Kinds of Hard Work.
 "I want you to understand," said young Spender, "that I got my money by hard work."
 "Why, I thought it was left to you by your rich uncle."
 "So it was, but I had hard work to get it away from the lawyers."

REPUBLICAN GAINS NOTED OVER COUNTRY

SPEAKER JOSEPH CANNON CAME BACK AND WILL GO TO CONGRESS.

Democrats Elect a Governor in Massachusetts—Penrose and Whitman Winners.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
 New York, Nov. 3.—Sweeping Republican gains throughout the country, which reached a climax in this state by the overwhelming victory of Charles S. Whitman for governor, and James W. Wadsworth to succeed Elihu Root in the United States senate, were indicated tonight in early returns of the general elections.

Heavy falling off in the Progressive vote in many states, the return to congress of former Speaker Jos. G. Cannon, decisive Republican gains in New York and Illinois in the house membership, and the overwhelming defeat of Representative A. Mitchell Palmer by Senator Boies in Pennsylvania, were features of the early returns. Democratic leaders, however, were pleased by a triumph in Massachusetts, where former Representative Samuel W. McCaill was defeated for the governorship by Governor Walsh.

Early returns indicated that the Democrats would control congress with approximately no change in the senate majority, but by a decidedly reduced majority in the house. At a late hour, results in Illinois, Indiana, California and Colorado as to the senatorship were in doubt. In Illinois, Roger C. Sullivan, who had the endorsement of most administration leaders, Secretary of State Bryan excepted, was leading in Chicago and Cook county by a large plurality over Senator L. Y. Sherman, Republican, and Raymond Robbins, Progressive, but Senator Sherman was running ahead in the county districts and was claiming the election.

The triumph of Senator Penrose in Pennsylvania, over A. Mitchell Palmer, Democrat, who was one of the original supporters of Woodrow Wilson and Gifford Pinchot, was overwhelming. The senatorial fight in Kansas also was uncertain, according to early returns. Charles Curtis, former Republican senator, Congressman George A. Neeley, Democrat, and Representative Victor Murdock, Progressive, engaged in a spirited contest for the seat of Joseph L. Bristow. Senators re-elected as the result of hard battles were, Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut, who was opposed by Governor Simeon E. Baldwin; Albert B. Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, who defeated Representative Maurice Connolly; John Walter Smith, Democrat, of Maryland; William J. Stone, Democrat, of Missouri; Jacob H. Gallinger, Republican, of New Hampshire, who was opposed by Representative E. B. Stevens.

Democratic senators in the south were re-elected without difficulty, new senators from southern states chosen being Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, and Representative Thomas V. Hardwick of Georgia. Former Senator J. C. W. Beckham was chosen for the long term.

Francis E. McGovern, Republican, was elected according to early returns to succeed Senator Stephen S. Republican, from Wisconsin. The triumph of former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, Republican, over Frank T. O'Hair, for representative in the eighteenth Illinois district, seemed certain on the early returns. Other Illinois Republicans who were turned out of the house in the last Democratic landslide, who will be returned to congress, were William B. McKinley, Charles E. Fuller, and John A. Sterling. Republicans also made gains in New York. Oscar W. Swift defeated Representative James O'Brien in the ninth district; Rollin B. Sanford defeated Representative Peter G. Ten Eyck. Walter W. Magee succeeded the seat of Representative John R. Clancy, while R. L. Haskell, Republican, was elected in the tenth district. The defeat of Representative Charles A. Korbly, Democrat, of Indiana, by Merrill Moores, also marked the general trend of Republican gains throughout the country.

Sereno E. Payne of New York, one of the oldest members of the house in point of service, was re-elected without difficulty. Election of state officers resulted in a few turnovers. In New York Governor Glynn, Democratic candidate for re-election, was defeated decisively by District Attorney Whitman, Republican. Frederick M. Davenport, Progressive nominee, in support of whose candidacy ex-President Roosevelt devoted most of the campaign, was left far in the rear, his vote being exceeded by that of William Sulzer, who was deposed as governor last year.

In Tennessee also a change of party control was indicated.

Taking Her Down.
 "My farewell appearance was an occasion of the greatest enthusiasm," said one prima donna.
 "Yes," replied the other. "Isn't it remarkable that such a large number of people should have seemed so delighted to hear you for the last time?"—Washington Star.

For Grandma's Feelings.
 Little Marion had been sharply reprimanded by her mother for saying things that hurt her grandmother's feelings. Later the youngster was found at the medicine cabinet, and when questioned she replied, "I'm looking for the aniline to rub on grandma."

Panama is considering the establishment of a national school of telegraphy.

Making People Better.
 There are more people in cities than anywhere else.

When you want to accomplish a certain result you go where there is the greatest opportunity.

To make government better you must make people better.

To make people better you must work where there are the greatest number of them.

Remove the cities, and the country will take care of itself.

In advertising campaigns one district is tried out first. If it succeeds, then the whole country is taken. This saves much money. It reduces the risk.

In this country we are trying to reform too many cities at once. Let us take one at a time.

Begin anywhere.

If New York is too large, take Fifth avenue. Let all the efficiency reformers in the country concentrate on Fifth avenue. Let's learn on Fifth avenue.

If we can reform Fifth avenue we can reform the world.—Thomas L. Masson in Lippincott's.

Making an Apology.

Never be in too great a hurry to apologize.

And don't apologize unless you are absolutely certain that you have given offense. More feelings have been hurt by unnecessary apologies than by careless words or actions.

In any case you need not copy the example of people who say, "I'm sorry I was so absentminded when you were talking to me," or, "I'm afraid I didn't seem very pleased to see you the last time you called."

A very wise old lady once said: "My dear, never apologize. The chances are that the people to whom you speak will not know they have been offended till you begin to explain it to them. But once they have grasped it they will never forget it again."

"So leave well alone and show your regret by being extra nice next time to make up for past shortcomings."—Pittsburgh Press.

Mixed Orders.

The very last telegraphic dispatch wired from Germany before hostilities began in the Franco-Prussian war was from Count Benedetti, the French ambassador, and was sent to the French foreign office. After stating that war could not be avoided the dispatch wound up with the following extraordinary statement: "Do not put so much seasoning in your next consignment of sausages." The astonishment that this message caused to the recipients at such a time can well be conceived, but it afterward turned out that the imminence of war and a perfect flood of telegrams had befogged the German telegraphists. As a matter of fact, they had mixed a purely commercial telegram from a Teutonic pork butcher named Benedetti with the historic message from Count Benedetti.—London Standard.

Ready For the Wash.
 Mrs. Commuter, basely deserted by her maid at the eleventh hour, mobilized a Swedish reserve in desperation for the dinner party. All the English the new domestic understood was the sign manual, but an hour's drill put her in some shape for service. The dinner went well until dessert. The Swede forgot the finger bowls, which should have been upon the plates. Mrs. Commuter employed the sign manual under cover of the table illustrating the washing and drying of hands. The Swede nodded, went on and returned.

Mrs. Commuter turned to find the new domestic at her elbow. Serenely she held a dishpan of hot water, a cake of yellow washing soap and the kitchen roller towel.—New York Post.

Easy.
 "Some folks," said the busy woman, "take life easy, as easy as the new hired girl wanted to take her new place."

"Everything goes by clockwork here," the mistress said to this girl—by clockwork, mind you. You get up at 6, you dine at 12, and you go to bed at 10."

"Well, if that's all," said the girl, with a smile, "I think I will be able to manage it."

Breathing.
 To learn to breathe properly inflate the lungs and walk for five paces, keeping the mouth shut and breathing through the nose, increasing the five paces to ten and then to fifteen or more. Follow this up by taking several long breaths after getting up in the morning and again before retiring.

Dryden and His Wife.
 Dryden and his wife, Elizabeth Howard, a woman of marked ability. She complained that he showed her no attention and showed herself a book that she enjoyed more of his society. "What a selfish animal," he said. "Then I could change you every year."

A Notable Draft.
 "Well," said the physician when his patient asked him for money, "I hope to have a draft soon and then I can change you every year."

What draft?
 "The one I have Mr. Oldtown sitting in the morning."

Are you going for the uplift?
 "Well, I don't know. But everybody I try to uplift."

Reason.
 "I suppose I am the universal of the American."

French exports were valued at $1,326,500,000.

ST. JOE ROAD.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. William O'Brien of Johnstown in St. Joseph's church Saturday morning when Miss Myrtle Isabelle became the bride of Mr. Fred Morris, a mining engineer of Wheeling, W. Va. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin and lace and a white veil. The bridesmaid, Miss Mabel Isabel, a sister of the bride, wore pale blue. The groom's best man was Mr. Joe Morris, a brother of the groom. Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip they will go to house-keeping in Wheeling. Their many friends wish them a long and happy life.

Mrs. Charles McKinney of Marion, and Miss Ruth Mattingly are guests at the McKinney home this week. Messrs. W. C. Baldwin and son Roy of Columbus drove over from Columbus in their automobile Saturday to their farm at this place. Mrs. Priest, who has been sick for about a year at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sharp, is very low and her death is looked for at any time. Mr. Silas Orr and family of Ash were guests at the Hupp home Sunday. Mrs. Charles Haver is visiting her parents at Plain City this week. Mrs. Butts of Pataskala is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Sharp.

The Essential Thing.
 In Gilbert K. Chesterton's book "The Flying Inn" is a sentence worth thinking about in this day of excursions and excursions. "For she felt God's wind from nowhere, which is called the will and is man's only excuse upon this earth."

Art is Long.
 "It took eight years of work."
 "That's a long time to devote to one picture."
 "Yes, indeed—six days to paint it and the rest of the time to sell it."

ASHBROOK RE-ELECTED TO CONGRESS

WILLIAM A. ASHBROOK.

Congressman William A. Ashbrook has been elected by a substantial majority over Judge Walter A. Irvine, of Licking county. From incomplete returns in Licking county early this morning, Mr. Ashbrook estimated that he would carry the county by 2200. An Advocate telegram from Mansfield says Ashbrook has 1768 to Irvine's 1294 in 16 precincts of Richland county. The count is slow in Knox county, but neither Ashbrook nor Irvine will have a large majority in Knox. Ashland from morning reports indicates a majority of 1200 for Ashbrook, while Coshocton will give Ashbrook a majority of 500 or more, it is expected.

Crowd Orderly; Police Have No Arrests to Make.

Despite the fact that the downtown streets were thronged from 7 o'clock until midnight, Tuesday, the police department reports that there was no trouble at any time during the evening. Though the crowds did not hesitate to show their partisanship for their favorite candidate, there were no arguments, no disorder, and remarkably few indications that anyone was celebrating overzealously. Up to 11 o'clock the police patrol wagon had not been away from headquarters and the officials were shaking hands with themselves over the fact that the crowd had been handled so well. Police Chief Sheridan and Safety Director Dayton were at headquarters ready to direct operations should any occasion arise requiring the attention of the department heads.

A Thousand Dollars Invested Here

Every six months it earns $20.00 in interest which can be drawn in cash or left to compound as you prefer.

If any emergency arises and you need your money, you do not have to hunt a buyer as you would with a bond or a mortgage, and perhaps sell at a discount to get the cash.

In thirty-four years we have never asked any one to wait a day or an hour for all or a part of his money, nor has any one ever had to take one penny less than all he had paid in plus credited interest.

What other place can you find for your money offering such manifest advantages as a reserve?

Most of the discord in this world comes from the people who are singing their own praise.

A Dutiful Son.
R. C. Cato Woodville in his book, "Random Recollections," gives some of his experiences in Albania.
Mr. Woodville wanted a certain man to come and cook for him on a journey. The man was doubtful whether he could leave his mother, who was very old and infirm, but he said he would try to follow Mr. Woodville in a day or so. Eventually he arrived, and Mr. Woodville asked what arrangements he had made about his mother.
"He replied," says Mr. Woodville, "that the old woman was very decrepit and that she could not last long. I knew all that, but I wanted to know what he had done for her during his absence. He went on telling me how hard it was to get a living until at last I got impatient. Then he told me quite calmly that as his mother was so old and useless he had thought it best to poison her and that he had stopped behind, as a good son should, to have her buried properly."
Mr. Woodville adds that the man was such a liar that he didn't believe he had done anything of the sort, though he was quite capable of it.

Tea Drinking in Russia.
It is not correct to say that Russians like their tea without sugar; on the contrary, they usually take several big lumps. The peasants bite pieces off the sugar instead of putting it into the glass. A slice of lemon is usually, though not always, put in the glass, but orange, jam, bits of apple and even strawberries, when in season, are very popular substitutes and make a drink which most people would consider uncommonly nasty. Hostesses who wish to be quite comme il faut in this matter should note that Russian tea must be served to ladies in cups, not glasses; gentlemen drink it from glasses with silver or plated holders. The long handled spoon used for stirring the tea is left in the glass, and to manipulate it properly while drinking requires some little dexterity. Failing the glass-bowl, a saucer may be used, and in less excited circles it is permissible, and even customary, to drink the tea from the saucer.

Breaks Only the Best.
They were preparing to move, and the mistress herself was packing the china. She had reached a set of bread and butter plates in which she particularly delighted—a simple white and gold pattern of exquisite fineness—and one was missing. She hunted through the kitchen and half empty pantry and as a last resort unpacked a neatly closed box she had just finished. She thought of asking Delphine, the faithful old deaf maid, but the effort required to make her hear seemed too great.

Delphine, however, whose keen eyes missed nothing, when she saw her mistress on the point of losing her patience came over to her and explained: "I'll have to tell you now. I broke one of them things 'other day. I don't break anything very often, but when I do it's something of a consequence."—New York Sun.

Plant Protection.
Many plants are equipped with wonderful weapons for their defense. The thorns of the rose bush, bramble and goose prevent cows and horses from eating them, as well as keep off snails and slugs.

Cactus plants have a formidable armor of prickles and daggers. The plant known as the Spanish bayonet is armed with taper pointed spears that have deadly edges.

Some plants, such as the ragged robin, have sticky stems covered with fine hairs, to which insects stick if they climb up to try to steal the honey. The sun spurge has a poisonous juice which kills insects, while the poisonous properties of the deadly nightshade are well known. The bracken fern has such a bitter taste that cows and sheep will not touch it.

An Immense Help.
A society woman at a tea in Newport praised the toilets of a Baltimore girl. "She dresses exquisitely," said the guest, who, dressing exquisitely herself, is an admirable judge. "Her hats, her shoes, her cologne—it's all exquisite."

"And I like to see her take such pains with her appearance," the guest added. "It is wise. For a girl can't help her looks, but her looks can help her."—Exchange.

Her Sympathy.
Old Gentlemen (who had just finished reading an account of a shipwreck with loss of passengers and all hands)—"Ha! I am sorry for the poor sailors—that were drowned. Old Lady—Sailors! It isn't the sailors; it's the passengers I am sorry for. The sailors are used to it."—New York Globe.

Manhattan Island.
Manhattan Island is bounded on the north by the Harlem ship canal (formerly Spuyten Duyvil creek), on the east by the Harlem and the East rivers, on the south by New York upper bay and on the west by the Hudson river. Its area is twenty-two square miles.

Diplomacy.
"What did you tell your wife when you got home from the club last night?" "I told her she was the sweetest woman in the world."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Kindly Spirit.
Ritty—Jack says he loves me so much that he would die for me. Aunt Jane—Jack would do anything to escape work.—Boston Transcript.

To act with a purpose is what raises man above the brute.—Lansing.

A woman can often make a man feel cheap by calling him dear.

Guarding a Modern Fort.
The modern fort is armed with a garrison of 200 or more men who work the guns in watches much as if they were on a battleship. While the direct fire guns are surrounded by pits of ten foot concrete and are protected by armored cupolas, the guns rising to fire and dropping back after each discharge, these places are by no means safe. A. von Schwartz, a Russian artillery officer, in describing the defense of Port Arthur, in which he took part, told of the havoc of the Japanese guns and of the rain of shells that made it impossible for food to be brought from protected communication lines for a half day at a time. Because of the certainty of death which awaits any body of men attacking the trenches of either during broad daylight, surprise night attacks are favored by both besieged and besiegers, but particularly by the latter. Hence searchlights, mines and circles of electric wires are used by both sides and add not a little to the horrors of war.—Walter B. Hatt in Leslie's.

Ferocious Looking Sikhs.
Did you ever see a Sikh in uniform? No? Whatever of fierceness your childhood fancy painted upon the face of a soldier, the Sikh has it. Other soldiers may be as brave or may fight more tenaciously or die more willingly, but for simple fierceness of personal appearance all medals go to the Sikh.

A Sikh—and I've seen many regiments of them on their native heath—is a tall man with black hair and a long black beard. The beard is what makes him look so fierce, because he plaits it into two thick braids and draws these back of his ears, where they are tied.

If you think that doesn't make a soldier look fierce, you make a sad error, which one glance at him would correct.

The Sikhs are Hindus, and so strict are their religious beliefs that all the food they eat must be especially prepared according to their own rites.—Girard in Philadelphia Ledger

Very Awkward.
Two Frenchmen, one an artist and the other a subeditor, fought a duel. The combatants faced each other with grim determination, both being confident of victory.

After much parleying the subeditor managed to get in an overwhelming cut, which severed the artist's nose. The wounded man dropped his sword with a groan, but in falling had the misfortune to fall across the big toe of his right foot, cutting it clean off. After this interesting state of affairs he was rendered hors du combat.

The doctors rushed up to replace the pieces, but in doing so they made the fatal mistake of putting the toe on the artist's face and his nose where the toe should have been, and ever since the accident when the unfortunate fellow wanted to sneeze he has been obliged to take off his boot.—Strand Magazine.

Boared the Beast.
The extraordinary skill with which Sir Edwin Landseer painted animals was due not merely to his mastery of the brush, but also to his intimate knowledge of the animal world. One of his many talents was the power of imitating to perfection the cry of any creature with which he was familiar.

One day when the artist happened to be the guest of Lord Rivers he was requested to go and see a very savage dog that was tied up in the yard. As Landseer approached the growling beast he dropped quietly upon his hands and knees and then, crawling forward, snarled so alarmingly that the dog, overcome with terror, suddenly snapped his chain, jumped over the wall and was never seen afterward.

No Differences.
Personally, we never attached to wedding and engagement news the importance in which it is held by society reporters. And we incline to believe both to be purely private matters in which the wishes of the persons involved should be paramount. But a girl might as well print the news of her engagement to a tell it to her best friend.—Topeka Capital.

Brain of the Gorilla.
The gorilla is in stature about the same as man, but is far behind him when it comes to the contents of the brain pan. The greatest capacity of the gorilla's brain is only 344 cubic inches, the least 23, as against 62 in the least capacious human skull and 114 in the greatest.

Art in the Soup.
The artist's wife leaned over and looked at her husband's soup after she had handed it to him.

"Oh," she cried, "look at the swirl the fat has made in your soup. Isn't it artistic? Don't eat it. It is so beautiful!"—Exchange

More's the Pity.
"Patience—it takes two to make a quarrel, you know. Patience—And yet I have known quarrels to occur when two persons have been made one."—Yonkers Statesman

Enough Said.
"Why do you ever take that mortgage on your home?" asked the old fogey.
"Because I can't lift it," replied the grooch.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

It Usually Does.
When a man and a woman discuss the subject of matrimony one seldom gets the better of the other. It usually results in a tie.—Lancashire.

Some men, like puma, are fitter for a corner than a full light.—Herrick.

The United States in 1913 produced 22,697,131 barrels of cement

Soaring Prices

The trend of the average price of commodities is upward and promises to be upward for quite a time. The European war is not the only reason for the upward trend. Those business men who regularly read our basic Trade Reports know why certain prices would have advanced this Fall if there had been no War in Europe.

We shall be glad to furnish these Reports to any business man in this city who is not now on our mailing list.

Louis of Battenberg, Forced From Office

Prince Louis of Battenberg, long first sea lord of the British admiralty, has been forced to resign because of the outcry against him in Great Britain. Lord Fisher has been named in his place. Prince Louis is too closely related to the German Kaiser to suit the Britishers. He sent to Winston Spencer Churchill the following letter:

His record in the navy has been distinguished. He served in the Egyptian war in 1882 and won the medal and the Khedive Star. He organized the system of information now in use in the navy and invented apparatus which became of standard use, two of his inventions, a ship's indicator, which actually informs navigators when their vessels are out of course, and a roller ruler, which enables seamen to calculate the ship's run and the time necessary for one ship to overtake another, having been particularly useful.

The board of education met Tuesday evening, President W. C. Christian presiding, with members Clerk James K. Dewey, William L. Miller and S. W. Haight also present. At the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved the following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

Imperial Brush Co., $4.00; The Newark Electrical Co., $7.50; P. A. Baumgartner, periodicals, $13; Phil Vogelmeier, freight and drayage, $5.23; M. L. Cramer, labor, $19; Norris & Webb, lumber, lime and posts, $51.77; Scott Paper Co., $23.02; Sprague Grocery Co., $4; Newark Lumber Co., $34.43; P. Clerk Dewey announced that he had made provisions for meeting all financial obligations up to the first of January when the semi-annual settlement will be made. The funds will be furnished by local banks.

Superintendent Wilson Hawkins stated that his statistical report had been given through the local press Tuesday evening. He was pleased to inform the board that they had had two months of very excellent school, from the standpoint of teaching, good attendance and general teachers' meetings. At these meetings they had taken up the subject of instruction and were endeavoring to arrive at the very best teaching possible.

The matter of school discipline was brought up and Superintendent Hawkins stated that he was sorry to inform the board that male members of the class of '15 had been guilty of a very serious breach of discipline. He then related how a group of boys of the class had entered the high school building between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock early Tuesday morning and painted numerals all over the inside steps, corridors of the building and the roof and dome. Mr. Hawkins said that he had received an anonymous telephone call about 11 o'clock, Monday night, telling him that an endeavor would be made to enter the building. That he came up and entered the back way, examined the building, found nothing wrong, and then called the police.

***** CZAR WOULD REACH HEART OF GERMANY BEFORE MAKING PEACE. *****

(Associated Press Telegram) London, Nov. 3.—A dispatch from Moscow to Reuters Telegram company, says that Emperor Nicholas in telegraphing his greeting to the Merchants' Association on the opening of its session, said: "Peace only is possible when Russia reaches the heart of German soil. This is the unanimous opinion of all Muscovites. Any apprehension of peace being concluded before the enemy is completely crushed is unfounded."

FROST TOO LATE TO HURT POTATOES.

Licking county farmers were fortunate that the frosts were late in arriving this fall and as a consequence a great crop of potatoes was gathered away today. Potatoes a month later than usual. Licking county has a large potato crop this fall and farmers are selling them at 10 and 15 cents a bushel. The quality this year is exceptionally good and the demand for the tubers for winter storage has been brisk. The same can be said of apples and buyers have been going through the country gathering them up by the railroad, most of them bringing from 30 to 50 cents per bushel on the premises.

FRENCH OFFICER'S HIGH COMPLIMENT TO GERMAN AIRMEN

(Associated Press Correspondent.) London, Oct. 22.—Members of the German military air service are paid high tribute by a French officer whose letter dealing with them appeared in the Gazette de Lausanne. A translation reads:

"Our enemies also have profited by the war by taking its lessons to heart. They maintain the best sort of field intelligence service and their general information department seems to be getting the news from all parts of the world. We did not think that the German flyers were so numerous. Whole swarms of them locate and survey our positions, and when one of them is shot down five others put in appearance."

"The flyers on the reconnaissance work thrown red phibers to the ground. At first our soldiers thought these were bombs and promptly threw themselves on the ground. But they waited in vain for the explanation. Instead of large clouds of smoke rose from the ball, and a few minutes afterward came a hail of shrapnel."

"The German artillery, though inferior to ours, hits the mark. The plan to have aviators locate our positions by means of the smoke-ball is a great idea. We are now familiar with the little trick, but while it worked it was valuable."

AUSTRIAN FACTORIES FEAR BIG SHORTAGE AMERICAN COTTON

(Associated Press Telegram) Venice, via Paris, Nov. 3.—The Austrian textile manufacturers are greatly worried over the question of obtaining further supplies of cotton from America. They fear all their efforts will fail even though attempts have been made to obtain this commodity through neutral states.

The stocks of cotton in Austria are sufficient to last only a few weeks so that the situation in the mills is becoming desperate.

GREAT PHOTO PLAY AT THE ORPHEUM NOVEMBER 5th & 6th

CAST. Bobby Burnit... Edward Abeles Agnes Elliston... Bessie Barriscale Daniel Johnson... Howard Hickman David Appleford... George Hernandez Sam Stone... Theodore Roberts Silas Trimmer... Sydney Deane Biff Bates... Billy Elmer Lawyer... Robert Dunbar

STORY OF THE PLAY Bobby Burnit, by his father's will, inherits three hundred thousand dollars which, the will stipulates, he must invest. Having had no business experience, Bobby is at a loss how to proceed until his sweetheart, Agnes Elliston, persuades him to take over the John Burnit stores.

Sam Stone, a schemer and dishonest promoter, learns of Bobby's inheritance and, through the connivance of Bobby's lawyer, sells him the Bright Light power plant.

Silas Trimmer, owner of the Trimmer stores, has long cherished a desire to gain control of the Burnit stores and induces Bobby to consolidate the two corporations. Immediately the consolidation occurs, Trimmer issues a new stock and gains control of the enterprise.

Biff Bates, an old pal of Bobby's, overhears Stone's plan to wreck the Brightlight, and, only by taking matters in his own hands, is he able to frustrate Stone.

Stone and Trimmer combine to rob Bobby, but Johnston, a trusted clerk of Bobby's father, secures the aid of the Daily Bulletin and the following day the Bulletin prints a story of the doings of the two crooks.

Bobby plans with Biff Bates to pick a quarrel with Trimmer's son. Biff pretends to be fatally injured and the younger Trimmer sells his stock to Bobby to prevent his being exposed as the murderer of Bates.

Ames overhears a plot between Stone and the men and warns Bobby. Bobby rescues Agnes, secures control of the stores and causes the arrest of the bribed politicians. Agnes then delivers a letter to Bobby, written by his father before his death. It reads: "I knew you'd come out all right, stop proposing and marry her." And he did.

PROHIBITION IS BADLY DEFEATED IN WASHINGTON

Associated Press Telegram. Seattle, Wash., Nov. 4.—Scattering returns of yesterday's election from all parts of the state indicate that prohibition has been beaten decisively. Seattle furnishing the greater part of adverse majority and that the proposed eight hour law has also been defeated.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, Republican, is probably re-elected. Pennsylvania and New Jersey lead all other states in the quantity of wood used for making tobacco pipes, and in live apple wood, French birch, ebony, rock, gum and olive wood.

IT RUINS HAIR TO WASH IT WITH SOAP.

Soap should be used very sparingly if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mild castile soap. It is pure and harmless. It is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use. One of two teapoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff, or excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and the hair feels silky, bright, lustrous, and is easy to manage. You can get purified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or fretful is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

WONDER

EXPRESSED THAT THE GERMAN FLEET SHOULD SO EASILY WIN NAVAL BATTLE.

Glasgow and Otranto are Bottled Up by German Cruisers in Chilean Port.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM] Valparaiso, Chile, Nov. 4.—The victory of the German fleet under Admiral von Spee, consisting of the armored cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the light cruisers Nürnberg, Leipzig and Bremen, over the British squadron, made up of the cruisers Monmouth, Goodhope and Glasgow and the transport Otranto, commanded by Rear Admiral Cradock, continues the sensation of the hour here.

That the Germans were able to sink or scatter the British squadron with only minor damage to their own ships and a casualty list of only two wounded is a subject of wonder.

The Monmouth is known to have been lost with practically all of her crew, as a result of this first big naval fight of the war; the Goodhope was severely damaged and on fire when she escaped under cover of darkness, and it is believed here that she went to the bottom, while the Glasgow and the Otranto took refuge in a Chilean port.

The Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Nürnberg were still in the harbor early today, coaling and provisioning, in preparation for steaming away later in the day. It is supposed they will relieve the cruisers Leipzig and Bremen, which have the Glasgow bottled up in the port of Talcahuano, eight miles northwest of Concepcion. It would seem like madness for these British ships to leave this haven of refuge and it is likely that they will be dismantled and interned, unless a superior British and Japanese fleet should make its appearance and go to their relief.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF NAVAL VICTORY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM] Washington, Nov. 4.—Official news of the German naval victory on the coast of Chile over the British fleet was contained in a cable to the German embassy here today from Mr. Brockert, German minister at Valparaiso.

The message received early today says:

"The German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Nürnberg entered Valparaiso today in perfect condition. They had together with a fourth cruiser, an engagement of Coronel on Sunday with four English cruisers. The Monmouth was sunk by shells, the Goodhope was badly damaged and probably sunk. The Otranto and Bristol escaped.

"On our side there were three wounded. No damage to our ships."

A SUGGESTION TO FAIR BOARD

The seasons come often. Youth comes only once. Every boy and every girl have a right to have a good time while young. The Agricultural Commission of Ohio will give every County Fair to offer premiums for something that boys and girls can do and display.

County fairs are drawing public money. The public is entitled to value money.

One County Fair, 1914, enrolled 144 boys in the stock judging contests and the same number in a corn quality and scoring.

The Commission recommends following contests:

1. Stock judging.
  2. Corn quality and scoring.
  3. Educational exhibits by schools.
  4. Baking and sewing.
  5. The growing.
  6. Home and table decorating.
- County Fair Boards should have a list of every boy and girl between the ages of 12 and 21, in the county, and give all an invitation to do something for the Fair.

Give youth a chance.

NO ARRESTS MADE ON ELECTION DAY FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Not a single person was arrested election day for drunkenness and the patrol was only called out once during the day. The men at headquarters stated that it was one of the most quiet elections as far as their department was concerned, in many years. Safety Director Carl Dayton remained at police headquarters throughout the evening in anticipation of a busy time but was pleasantly disappointed and instead of directing police operations received the election returns, predicting early in the evening the success of the Republican state and county tickets.

Tuesday's Election.

Reversing their judgment of two years ago, the people of the state on Tuesday favored the Republican party by giving to Congressman Frank B. Willis the governorship and honored Warren G. Harding by naming the Marion editor as Ohio's first elected-by-the-people United States senator. Mr. Willis has a plurality over Governor Cox of more than ten thousand while Mr. Harding's plurality over Mr. Hogan will greatly exceed that figure.

In giving the governorship and senatorship to the Republicans the voters also placed the state house office and the legislature in their hands and by a decisive vote defeated the Prohibition, Woman Suffrage and Taxation constitutional amendments. At noon Wednesday when these words were written the fate of the Home Rule amendment appeared to be uncertain.

The Democracy has retained control of both branches of Congress, has elected a governor in Massachusetts, senators in Maryland, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia. On the other hand the Republicans have been successful in electing governors of New York and Wisconsin and in re-electing Senator Penrose in Pennsylvania.

The Ohio Congressional delegation is reduced to eleven members, but it is very gratifying to Licking county voters that William A. Ashbrook is among this number. While Licking county gave a small plurality to Mr. Willis at the same time she gave a handsome plurality to Mr. Ashbrook, thus again expressing confidence in and appreciation of his valuable service.

Because of the heavy vote and the time required to canvass the state, county, judicial and amendment tickets, complete returns are not as yet at hand to determine the state senatorship and the complexion of the judicial ticket. The news columns of this edition give the vote on senator, judges and the county ticket, part of which it will be seen goes to the Democrats and part to the opposition.

The causes of the political cataclysm are not at once apparent, and it will take further analysis of the locality of returns to formulate a satisfactory explanation of what may be termed a landslide. In Ohio there was a desperate fight made upon Governor Cox for an alleged attempt upon his part to centralize power into the hands of the chief executive, while at the same time, the rural communities had a misconception of the intent and operation of the Warnes law, which was cultured by Republican politicians until it became a ferment of discontent, and a belief that the farm-owners especially were being deprived of the sacred privilege of self-government, with a sacrifice of the principle to the idea of being governed from the seat of gubernatorial power.

It will be interesting to see what the new state administration will attempt to do, what laws of the Cox administration, if any, it will repeal, and what measures will take their place.

Some of the greatest humanitarian laws upon the statute books of any state were enacted by the present administration and it remains to be seen whether the Republicans will disturb them.

While both the general and local result is a surprise and a disappointment to Democracy the party that has existed since the days of Jefferson is by no means dismayed at temporary defeat but will buckle on its armor and be ready for the next campaign.

Mr. Willis carries this county by 29 plurality. The county and city complete gives state-wide prohibition a majority of 225 and a majority of 2916 against Home Rule.

Freedom of Debate.

Some people say that money can buy anything, that one can order a court decision or an election, just as one can buy a suit of clothes. They say newspaper support is for sale on the basis of advertising space. Also that college professors see a new light in matters of economics when donors come around with liberal views about endowment funds.

Major Wiener, an English graduate of Harvard, has told that university that it will miss a gift of $10,000,000 from his estate, if it continues to harbor Prof. Munsterburg, who has been making such bitter attacks on the allies in the European war.

There are some things money can't buy. Even the most pathetic little rag of a country newspaper may have as much independence as the millionaire publisher. The editor's desk may be a dusty catch-all of musty papers, his office unswept, his type battered. But that smoochy sheet where he speaks his editorial opinion is the one square foot on the planet where he is lord and master. Cash is no equivalent for his individuality. And the country editor has no monopoly of this independence.

Similarly a college plant and equipment may be a joke. The half-paid faculty may be rusty, seedy, threadbare. Or it may be an institution hoary with age and rich in art and architecture, yet needing millions to enable it to cope with modern life. Whatever the institution, it almost invariably cherishes its aloofness from the world of dollars and barter. It is one free spot where all opinions can contribute to the search of truth as the final standard of value.

The American people do not seem to sympathize much with Prof. Munsterburg's point of view. That is immaterial. Few of them would care to discipline him by depriving him of his job. It would have to be obvious encouragement to the many interests that would find college opinion useful in their business.

High School "Frats"

Every American high school girl who is a member of a Greek letter fraternity must resign, or she will be barred from such fraternities if she goes to college. This is the vote passed by the Pan-Hellenic Congress in New York.

The high school fraternities are an expression of the desire of many young folks of that age, particularly girls, to be grownups. Formerly, at that age, they played dolls. Now there are cut flowers and evening gowns. Dancing school takes the place of hy-sop around the barn.

The normal boy should be much more attracted to the washerwoman's son than to the offspring of the leading capitalist. The former knows where berries and birds' nests can be found. The latter has offensive and embarrassing habits of blacking his shoes.

As people advance in their pretensions, social lines descend even to childhood. As the washerwoman's daughter would not help your girl get invitations to dances, she is an undesirable. Here starts the high school fraternity movement, segregating those of like station in life. In many cities, no child from a family that lives in a flat can enter the best secret societies. For the "barb," or barbarian non-frat girl, there are no introductions and no partners at dances.

The public school should mix up all kinds of people. The rich man's son learns how to give and take on even terms with the son of the coal-heaver. When he gets into business or politics, the latter may be a valuable friend. Similarly Coal-heaver, Jr., can learn much from the offspring of Croesus. He will find that it is not a handicap, either in baseball or in life, to comb your hair.

The fraternities seem now to be agreeing that high school pupils are too young for this society life. They charge it with promoting snobishness and cliques. Fraternities have value in college, but the high school girl and boy do not need these grown-up manners.

The down town crowd was unusually large Tuesday night. Everybody was anxious for the election news.

A Community Trust.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)
Cleveland is developing a new agency of progress, the charge of which has been placed in the hands of Mr. Allen T. Burns, for the past five years secretary of the Pittsburg Civic Commission. The organization of which he will have charge is known as the Cleveland Foundation, and its purpose is somewhat loosely indicated by calling it a community trust.

The organization is framed in accordance with ideas first conceived by F. H. Goff, president of the Cleveland Trust company. These consisted mainly in framing a plan by which people of means could make bequests to the trust for the advancement of the public welfare of Cleveland. Although the plan was formed less than a year ago, it is said that the total of bequests written into wills is nearly $30,000,000, and as some testators have died that a considerable fund is now available. The foundation will be governed by five trustees appointed by the Cleveland Trust company, the mayor of the city, the probate judge of the county and the United States district judge. Its object is stated to be the social, industrial and civic improvement of Cleveland. The first work, for which over $100,000 is available, is in the nature of a comprehensive survey of Cleveland to study social conditions and agencies, public and private. The work to follow will be largely guiding the results of the survey.

Other cities will watch the progress of this experiment with great interest. If it proves an effective agency the example may be widely followed. Of course the success of any such work will depend as largely on the individual energy and judgment with which it is administered as on the plan of its formation. But the establishment of an endowed trust, to use all means for industrial and civic advancement is certainly an idea well worth trying.

The day was ideal. The bright, warm sunshine made it a pleasure to be out of doors. This weather condition undoubtedly contributed to the size of the vote, but the tremendously important issues presented to the people on Tuesday would have brought out a heavy vote, no matter what the weather conditions were.

The Advocate is greatly gratified at the many kind expressions from Democrats, Republicans and Progressives. This newspaper has been complimented for having conducted an absolutely clean campaign, and for having fairly presented the issues of the battle of the ballots.

West Main street was jammed from Third to Fourth streets until midnight. The people all come to "news-paper row" when they want to learn what's going on.

The Advocate appreciates the many compliments it has received upon its stereopticon bulletin table and upon its election extra.

The Democrats are in a position today to know how the Republicans felt two years ago.

It usually snows the day after but this time it's quite different.

Wonder which of the humanitarian laws the Republicans will repeal?

Well, it's all over but the shouting and the lamenting.

It does one good to get a jolt once in a while.

Never Questioned

Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure and wholesome. It is made from highly refined, pure, cream of tartar, an ingredient of grapes. Not an atom of unwholesomeness goes into it; not an unwholesome influence comes from it. It perfectly leavens the food, makes it finer in appearance, more delicious to the taste, more healthful.

Its superiority in all the qualities that make the perfect baking powder is never questioned.

Most of the criticism of Hiram Dillion's new $75,000 house came from those who occupy the rental properties across the street from it.

An eighteen-year-old girl's idea of an elderly man is one who will be thirty-five his next birthday.

A mother's favorite falsehood is the one to the effect that her baby never cries.

The ambition of nearly every dull, stupid man is to be known as a humorist.

If you wish particularly to annoy a man, ask him to be identified.

Back Kilby severely criticizes Amos Livengood for his part in his recent trouble with his wife. "I don't blame Amos for whipping her," said Back yesterday, "but when he tried to shoot her he went too far."

A girl is scorned because she is pretty and attractive to a man because it is believed that he will "set up" the cigars.

There is, at least, this to be said for woman's constancy, she seldom loves more than one man at a time.

When a girl engages in conversation, "he said" and "I told him" are the most popular phrases.

Luke McLuke

A woman spends half of her life worrying for fear she won't get married and the other half worrying because she did.

Women are such natural-born hammer welders that it seems strange that there are not more female blacksmiths and boiler makers.

Maybe the reason why the women don't discard the tight skirt and wear trousers is because it would take more goods to make the trousers.

Tell a girl that she has a pretty nose and she will get cross-eyed trying to look at it when there isn't a mirror around.

A man will roar about economy until his wife makes him a shirt with her own hands and makes him wear it. Then he shuts up for keeps and bribes the laundryman to lose the shirt.

When you tell a girl that she sings like a bird she is so pleased that she forgets that the crow and the pelican are both birds.

If people always told the truth there wouldn't be much talking done, but there would be a hospital at each street corner.

Every woman says: "I don't care what the neighbors say!" But she does. She can't sleep at night if she imagines the neighbors are talking about her.

NEW SHOES.

It's hard to seem quite dignified, when wearing shoes fresh from the store; your feet feel hot, as though just fried, and all the cords and tendons sore. I'm wearing new Number Twelve; the dealer said, when them he sold from off his overburdened shelves. "These shoes are worth their weight in gold. From lowest basement to the roof, I do not keep a shoe in stock that does not fit the human hoof, and make you happy when you walk." The birds are singing on the boughs, their songs, no doubt, are pure and sweet, and scintillate as the law allows, but I can only think of feet. The trees are clothed in red and gold, they glimmer in the gentle heat, they whisper when the nights are cold, but I can only think of feet. The busy squirrels gather nuts, preparing for the time of snow, when snow shall hide the highway's ruts, but I can think of feet. The pastor preaches well but long. His sermon is a perfect treat, the choir sings up a thrilling song, but all my thoughts are still of feet. And when my guests I entertain, and when I sit me down to eat, I'm meditating on the pain that tortures through my swollen feet. And there are moments when I feel I'd like to be a charger fleet, and have a smith take shoes of steel, and nail the blamed things on my feet.

Best Laxative For Children

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood.

The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

FOR DINNER CARDS.

Appropriate Designs Help to Lend Flavor to Thanksgiving Repast.

A great deal of the success of a dinner party depends upon the place cards, although they are apparently a very small detail of the table.

But any woman who entertains a good deal knows that quaint or unusual favors and cards call forth general enthusiasm and interest among the guests and give a topic of conversation which lends cordiality to the occasion, when otherwise there would be a stiffness and awkwardness at the start which it would be somewhat difficult to overthrow.

Thanksgiving is usually the time for a family reunion, and since families meet together upon such occasions year after year it is especially important to introduce as much novelty in the table itself as possible.

Silhouette pictures, used for place cards, form interesting and acceptable accessories for the table. These, outlined and filled in solidly in black, may take the shapes of turkeys, pumpkins, pies, wishbones, etc. Part of the design may be left white, if desired, for the writing of the name, or the silhouette design may be pasted

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Columbus, Nov. 4.—Nearly complete returns from more than half the counties most of the larger but not including many rural dry counties, at noon gave the home rule amendment a majority of 83,801. This included the majority of 69,000 given the amendment in Hamilton county.

Sealing Wax. A work on heraldry by Paul Gruendel, published at Leipzig, contains some information on the subject of sealing wax and the rules governing its use in the days of old. White wax was for the kings of France and later for the kings of Sicily. A few dukes were allowed the high privilege through the generosity of Frederick III. Red wax was for the holy father at Rome and the German monarchs, but as a mark of favor to the people it was allowed to be used generally. Green wax "was for the common people, and some cities which had been faithful to their government were compelled after, as a mark of their shame, to seal all public documents with green wax."

Pretty Good Method. A famous clergyman tells of a lay preacher's conference in which a veteran described his method of sermon preparation. "I take my text," he said, "and divide my sermon into three parts. In the first part I tell 'em what I'm going to tell 'em. In the second part—well, I tell 'em. In the third part I tell 'em what I've told 'em."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Only Used For Shaving. "Sam, here is an account of a man who has a razor that has seen continuous service for 150 years. It was bought in England by his grandfather."

"Well, all I has to say, boss, is dat he must belong to a powerful peaceful family."—Yonkers Statesman.

When the Waiter Came. "Were you ringing the bell, sir?" asked the waiter of the customer who had been busy with the bell for fully fifteen minutes.

"Ringing it, man?" echoed the customer. "I have been tolling it. I thought you were dead."

Widow's Cap. The widow's cap is as old as the days of Julius Caesar. An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear the cap under penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Queer Warning. In an English village an official notice reads as follows: "The public are warned against using the well for domestic purposes unless previously boiled."

For that matter one-half the world doesn't know how the other half dies, either.

Board of Education Arranges To Meet Financial Obligations Up to January 1st Next Year

The board of education met Tuesday evening, President W. C. Christian presiding, with members Cary, James W. Dewey, William D. Miller and S. W. Haffert also present. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved the following bills were allowed and entered paid:

Imperial Brush Co., $6.00; The Newark Electrical Co., $7.00; J. A. Baumgartner, periodicals, $1.12; Vogelmeier, freight and drayage, $5.23; M. L. Cranmer, labor, $19.00; Norris & Webb, lumber, lime and posts, $51.77; Scott Paper Co., $23.02; Sprague Grocery Co., $1.00; Newark Lumber Co., $34.13; P. Smith Lumber Co., $107.92; George Ritter, labor, $11.15; labor on chimneys of six buildings, $8.40; N. Emmert, labor, $0; Reinhold Plumbing and Heating Co., $23.81; Newark Natural Gas & Fuel Co., gas for October, $88.76; Newark Electrical Co., supplies, $23.70.

Clerk Dewey announced that he had made provisions for meeting all financial obligations up to the first of January when the semi-annual settlement will be made. The funds will be furnished by local banks.

Superintendent Wilson Hawkins stated that his statistical report had been given through the local press, Tuesday evening. He was pleased to inform the board that they had had two months of very excellent school, from the standpoint of teaching, good attendance and general teachers' meetings. At these meetings they had taken up the subject of instruction and were endeavoring to arrive at the very best teaching possible.

The matter of school discipline was brought up and Superintendent Hawkins stated that he was sorry to inform the board that many members of the class of '15 had been guilty of a very serious breach of discipline. He then related how a group of boys of the class had entered the high school building between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock early Tuesday morning and painted their names all over the inside steps, corridors of the building and the roof and dome. Mr. Hawkins said that he had received an anonymous telephone call about 11 o'clock, Monday night, telling him that an endeavor would be made to enter the building. That he came up and entered the back way, examined the building, found nothing wrong, and then called the police department and asked that a watch be kept for some time. This was done, but as no one appeared up to the midnight hour they decided that it was a canard to fool the superintendent. After they had left the boys entered and proceeded to paint things up, using a whitening, which can be erased with soap and water.

Superintendent Hawkins stated that he had the confession of twelve boys, who admitted being the authors of the defacement. He said that they had informed him that it was not their intention to destroy property but that they were loyal to the school and only wanted to inject a little class spirit into the school as there seemed to be a laxity along that line. That they had used whitening so that the marks could be erased in time.

Superintendent Hawkins and Principal Barnes, as the first punishment for the prank, compelled the boys to take water and wash the marks from the roof. Those in the corridors and on the steps had been washed by the janitors early Tuesday morning before the scholars came to school, and the boys were compelled to pay $10 for that extra work. The board discussed the seriousness of scholars entering buildings after night without permission and thought that something more should be done in the matter and they left it to Superintendent Hawkins and Principal Barnes for further action. In the future all such acts will be reported to the police department and the culprits will be turned over to them for punishment.

Truant Officer Frank Handel then made his report as such officer and also as superintendent of supplies. Mr. Handel had compiled it in a newspaper statement, and it was received by the board and filed for record.

Mr. Miller stated that he had been called upon by a committee who complained that the American flag was not floating from the flagstaff at the high school. Mr. Handel stated that it was not done through a lack of patriotism, but from the fact that it was a very hard task to raise. It took nearly an hour and was almost too heavy for a single man to handle. However, some arrangements will probably be made so that the flag will again float over the building.

There being no further business the board adjourned to meet again on Tuesday evening, November 17.

SIX REASONS.

"Why We Oppose Traveling on Railways Trains" is the title of an essay by a Cleveland suffragist, who seeks to baroque the anti-suffrage argument. Her reasons are:

1. Because traveling in trains is not a natural right.
2. Because our great-grandfathers never asked to travel in trains.
3. Because woman's place is in the home and in the train.
4. Because it is unnecessary there is no point reached by a train that cannot be reached on foot.
5. Because it will double the work of conductors, engineers and brakemen, who are already overburdened.
6. Because men smoke and play cards in trains. Is there any reason why women will behave better?

ANGER

EXPRESSED IN PARLIAMENT OVER THE SHABBY BRITISH PENSION SYSTEM

May Lead to a Reform so that Soldiers' Widows Will Be Better Cared for.

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)

London, Oct. 29.—Five shillings a week to the soldier's wife who has lost her husband in fighting his country's battles.

With this exclamation one of the leading London papers attacks editorially the government's pension system which it says is due to the old tradition summed up in Wellington's assertion that his troops in the Spanish campaign were only "the sum of the earth." The War Office, according to the writer, fails to realize that times are different now and the vast majority of volunteers are men who in civil life earned good wages in factory, field and shop.

Indignation has also been expressed in parliament so that it is not unlikely some reform in pensions may follow.

In the British army the pay of officers and men is dependent on the regiment. There is no standard scale of pay as in America. Commissioned officers, as a rule, receive a sum impossible to live on—about $15 a month. They must have independent means, and in the case of regiments such as the Scots' Greys or the Grenadier Guards they must be wealthy, with polo ponies, yachts and expensive uniforms. But in certain of the colonial troops doing police duty in lands bothered by savages, they get as good pay as American officers and do not have to keep up expensive establishments.

The ordinary infantrymen in the new volunteer army of a million men, pledged to four years' service, are started off at $10 a week, clear of expenses. Married men are allowed in addition separate pay for their families at the rate of $1.90 a week for the wife and two cents a day, or 25 cents a week, for each child. In the event of death they are given a further sum of $400 cents a week, owing to the higher cost of living.

All married soldiers serving abroad are obliged to allot at least $5 cents a week to their families out of their own pay. Worked out on this scale, the poorest man a soldier with a wife and children can receive is 21 shillings a week in the case of a widow, or 22 for a regimental quartermaster's servant.

11 shillings six pence for corporal or private. If the wife has four children to support, he will receive on the same scale a sum ranging from 31 to 32 shillings.

Widows of those who die on active service receive from five to ten shillings a week, according to the rank and pay of the husband. But the mass of them will not get over

When Boys Were Taught to Smoke.
 The habit of juvenile smoking in England in the seventeenth century was practically universal. Jorevin de Rochefort, a French traveler of that period, in an account published in 1671 gives a description of an evening spent at Worcester. He was catechized by one of the townsmen as to the habits of the French people.
 "While we were walking about the town," he writes, "he asked me if it was the custom in France, as in England, that when the children went to school they carried in their satchels which their mother took care to fill early in the morning, it serving them instead of breakfast and that at the accustomed hour every one laid aside his book to light his pipe, the master smoking with them and teaching them how to hold their pipes and draw in their tobacco, thus accustoming them to it from their youth, believing it absolutely necessary for a man's health."
 —St. James' Gazette.
Recruiting in Queen Anne's Day.
 Serve your queen or food work! That, in brief, was the rough and ready sentence passed on able-bodied unemployed men in the days of Queen Anne—a period of almost incessant warfare. When the recruiting officer—described at the time as a compound of "canting, lying, impudence, bullying, swearing, drinking and a halberd"—failed to beat up recruits fast enough for Marlborough's wars an act was passed to enable justices to compel all able-bodied men "as have not any lawful means for their own maintenance" to join the army. Parish officers were encouraged to hunt up food for powder and received $5 for every man sentenced to be a soldier, but the result was disappointing. Thousands deserted, and England relied mainly on volunteers. These were offered the bait of a twenty-dollar bounty and a discharge after three years—"if they deserved it."—London Mirror.

Eye of a Submarine.
 The great fault of the early submarines was that they could not see once they were below the surface of the water. The invention of the periscope altered all that and gave the modern submarine a marvelous eye by means of which it could see over the surface of the ocean, though the body of the submarine is completely below the waves. The eye of the submarine is a straight, hollow tube starting from the steering chamber of the vessel and projecting above the surface of the waves when the boat is submerged. As the periscope is only a matter of six inches in diameter and only projects some eighteen inches above the waves, it is a most difficult thing to see by an enemy. Its total length is about fifteen feet. The submarine's eye is really a combination of telescope and camera obscura. At the top is a powerful lens, and inside at intervals all the way down is a series of mirrors which carry the reflection of what is above the surface to the watcher in the submarine fifteen feet below.—Pearson's Weekly.
A Very Cold Thanksgiving.
 Thanksgiving day in 1871 was remarkable for the bitterly cold weather which prevailed over a large portion of our land. At many points in the north-west the mercury fell from 30 to 40 degrees below zero while at many places in New England it marked from 13 to 20 degrees below. The great feature of the day was a prizefight between Jim Maco, the famous gypsy ex-champion of England, and Joe Coburn, an Irish-American fighter, for the championship of the world and $2,000. It was fought at Montgomery station, near Bay St. Louis, Miss., and was witnessed by 50,000 spectators. Neither man seemed any the worse after three hours and thirty-eight minutes without materially damaging each other the referee declared the fight a draw.

One Voice Made.
 Composers have not scorned writing airs to suit the style of particular singers, thus, as Francis Rogers remarks, "storing up for the usual voices of subsequent generations much travail and sorrow." Mendelssohn crowded "Hear Ye, Israel," with high F sharps to give Jenny Lind, whom he adored, a chance to display the particular beauty of her voice in that region, with the result that that air has been a sore trial to most sopranos ever since. Faure, the famous French baritone, also had a particularly fucile and melow high F sharp, and many parts were written especially to give him a chance to exhibit it to the gasping multitude. But in most baritone voices this F sharp is the very limit of the upper range, and although it may have both power and brilliancy, it seldom possesses either mellowness or facility; consequently all the roles written for Faure (Meyerbeer's "Dinorah," for instance) are particularly trying for the ordinary baritone.—Argonaut.
Wearing Shabby Clothes.
 It's a great thing to wear shabby clothes and an old hat. Some of the best things I have ever known, like those experiences of the streets, have resulted from coming up to life from underneath, of being taken for less than I am rather than for more than I am.
 I did not always believe in this doctrine. For many years—the years before I was rightly born into this alluring world—I tried quite the opposite course. I was constantly attempting to come down to life from above. Instead of being content to carry through life a sufficiently wonderful being named David Grayson, I tried desperately to set up and support a sort of dummy creature which so clad, so housed, so fed, should appear to be what I thought David Grayson ought to appear in the eyes of the world. Oh, I spent quite a lifetime trying to satisfy other people—David Grayson in American Magazine.
Kleptomania.
 The paragraphist opened his typewriter, adjusted a sheet of paper, lit his pipe and sat for a moment immersed in thought. Then he clicked off a single line of copy. He glanced at what he had written, and a look of surprise came across his classic features. Then he gasped, shrieked and went into a fit of hysterics.
 His colleagues rushed into the room, but he was beyond human aid. In ten minutes he had laughed himself to death. Then one bethought himself to look at the last lines those fingers, now cold and still, had written. At the top of the all but unsullied sheet appeared these words: "Another shoplifter arrested in one of our big stores has been dismissed with a warning and her name withheld from the papers. What used to be called a crime is now yelet a mania!"
 That was all. But it had caught the paragrapher unawares.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
Curious Signboards.
 An eighteenth century Glasgow sweep suspended over the door of his house the announcement:
 Barny Keir, he does live here. He'll sweep your vents, and not too dear. And should they chance to go on fire He'll put them out at your desire.
 Edinburgh once enjoyed the distinction of possessing the most prolix signboard on record:
 "John Migh, Stationer, Bibles, Testaments, Psalms, Hymns, Prayer-books, Catechisms, Proverbs, Books, new and old, in various branches of literature. Money or exchange for old Books; Papers, Pens, and Ink; Wax and Wafers; Blacklead, Hair, and Hair Pencils; Colored Books, Memorandum Books, Religious Tracts, Books neatly bound, on moderate terms."—London Mail.
Bear Fighting.
 In the seventeenth century on feast days the life of the czar of Russia was enlivened with such amusements as a battle to the death between a bear and a spearman, in which, it is said, frequently the man lost his life. In the event of a successful issue the spearman was rewarded by being taken to the royal cellars, where he was allowed to drink as much as he liked.—Cri de Paris.
Not Enough Practice.
 "Oh, Johnnie, Johnnie," said the aunt reproachfully, "why is it you never remember to say 'Thank you'?"
 "I expect it's 'cause I don't get things given to me often enough for practice," answered the young diplomat, hopefully eating a box of chocolates.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bessie and Her Thanksgiving Pies
LITTLE Bessie Gray looked up from her story book with a sigh, and as she looked up she caught the reflection of her face in a mirror over the table and sighed again.
 "Oh, dear! If I were only slender and graceful and a grown up young lady or a princess and lived in a palace and had heaps of money and could carry bunches of flowers to sick people! But here I am, nothing but Bessie Gray—short, stout and homely, with a broad face and a wide mouth and not exactly poor, but then I have to work rather hard for a little girl, and as for the troubles of this world, somehow I don't feel so badly about them as I ought to, or else the people around here don't have any to speak of."
 "Now's your chance," said a little squeaking voice. Where did it come from? There was nothing in sight but a heap of pumpkins on a board just outside the window and a little colored girl passing the garden fence, scantily clad and shivering in the cold November sunshine. All that Bessie knew of her was that her name was Poppy, and she belonged to a family that were very shiftless, it appeared, from their unwillingness to work and their ignorant ways of doing the little they could do.
 But it could not be this little girl who spoke. She was hurrying on without turning a glance toward the house, eager, no doubt, to reach her miserable shelter from the cold.
 Bessie's curiosity was fully aroused. She went out and stood upon the doorstep. The colored child was still but the wind, and that hardly whispered through the leafless boughs of the pear trees. But there was the voice, close to her now. "Help me down," it said. And Bessie's mouth opened wider than ever as she saw the topmost pumpkin of the pile at her side moving itself without aid of hands. She took hold of its stem, and although it was one of the heaviest of the lot, she scarcely felt its weight at all.
 "Carry me in," said the voice again panting.
 Bessie had not believed her own ears until now. A pumpkin talking! That was more wonderful than Aesop's fables, truly. But why shouldn't it speak as well as the brambles and oak trees and brass kettles? So she turned the great thing over upon its side and rolled it, or, rather, let it roll itself, up the steps into the kitchen.
 "Cook me," said the little, panting, squeaking voice again. "Cook me."
 Just then her mother came in. "Mother, may I make some pumpkin pies?" said Bessie.
 "Well, I don't care," was the answer of the busy woman. "None of us seems to be so very fond of them, but you can make them if you'll only promise to get somebody to eat them."
 But the pumpkin began to squeak impatiently. "Cut me up! Cut me up!" And Bessie obeyed without more ado. Determined to have her pies as nice as they could be made, she poured out her milk, stirred in spice and sweetening and made the crust light, wondering while she rolled it out who would eat the pies when they were done.
 But the pumpkin told her as it boiled in the kettle—no longer with that low squeak, but with a deep, mellow rumble, as if laughing with joy over its own fate—"Black Poppy's people; black Poppy's people." And why shouldn't a pumpkin rejoice in the sacrifice of its own life for a benevolent purpose?
 And Bessie herself, when she carried the pies to Poppy's wretched home, having first set one aside in the cupboard that her mother might see that she could bake pies worth anybody's eating, looked almost beautiful with the excitement of doing a kindly deed. Her sun browned hands and stout arms were just fitted for the beautiful work they had been doing, and she had as much reason to be proud of them as any lady of her delicate fingers, for certainly those are the prettiest hands that do most willingly the work they were made for.
 And black Poppy's people could not have received one of the graceful ministering spirits of the story books with more eloquent gratitude than they did the homely little girl and her heavy basket of pies. Indeed, to those half starved beings she was a vision of loveliness, a real angel of mercy!—New York Press.
One Thanksgiving on July 4.
 According to Gabriel Furman, "Gor-emor Peter Stuyvesant made a communication to the church (Reformed Dutch) of Brooklyn, on Long Island, on the last day of June, 1653, directing the 4th day of July following to be observed as a day of thanksgiving, because among other things the English had been defeated in their attempt to take possession of the whole of Long Island by the timely arrival of a Dutch fleet of armed ships in the Bay of New Amsterdam, New York."
Fast Instead of Feast.
 Thanksgiving day, 1900, was a memorable event in the United States. From many a pulpit that day fell a warning that abnegation before God was more fit than the usual enjoyments of the day. So widely did this impression prevail that President Buchanan was appealed to by associations and various persons to appoint a special day of fasting and prayer to avert the dread coming of civil war. He yielded to the request, and Friday, Jan. 4, 1861, was set apart to that purpose.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS
Scalp Dries—Chokes out the Hair And Prevents its Growth.
 If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.
 It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
 By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.
 You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

WAR OFFICE ISSUES OFFICIAL REPORT ADVANCE AND MINOR ENGAGEMENT
 In East Prussia the Germans are Taking the Defensive Against Russians.
 (Associated Press Telegrams)
 Paris, Nov. 4.—The French war office gave out an official announcement as follows:
 "On our left wing to the north the situation shows no change as compared to yesterday. The enemy has drawn back on the right bank of the Yser. We have recaptured Lombaertzyde. The Germans occupy on the left bank of the Yser nothing more than the head of the bridge.
 "Between the Lys and the region of Arras there has been cannonading and minor engagements.
 "Between the region of Arras and the Oise we have made an advance to the east of Lequesne-en-Santerre as far as the heights of Parvillers.
 "On the center the German attack was developed on the right bank of the Aisne in the region of Vailly, and which resulted in our losing the first slopes to the north of Vailly and to the north of Craonne was not continued yesterday. A counter attack by our forces brought again into our possession a portion of the lost ground.
 "A violent cannonading and spirited German attacks were repulsed on the Meuse or in the Woivre district.
 "On our right wing, in Lorraine there is nothing new to report.
 "In East Prussia, the Germans are taking up the defensive and the Russians are making successful progress. In Poland the Russian troops have occupied Szadek, Lask and Rozprza without serious resistance. To the west of Kielce the Germans are retreating on Wlascowa and Andreyeff. On the Lower San river there have been engagements at Rozwadoff and Nisko, the results of which were favorable to the Russians and the Russians continue to cross this river. The German general staff has been moved to Czenstochowa, near the frontier of Silesia."

SUFFRAGE GETS SEVERE SETBACK IN ELECTIONS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Chicago, Nov. 4.—Woman suffrage suffered a setback in the election yesterday, six states voting against granting the franchise to women and woman candidates undergoing defeat at the polls. In Illinois, where women gained the right to vote for all statutory offices only recently, the number of votes cast by that sex fell off greatly.

Ohio, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Nevada voted against granting votes to women. Lively campaigns had been made in all of these states by advocates of woman suffrage.

In Kansas, a woman ran for congress in the sixth district and a lively campaign was conducted in her behalf but the female Progressive candidate, Mrs. Eva Morley Murphy, was defeated, running third. In Chicago, Miss Harriet Vittum and Miss Mary McDowell, heads of Social settlements, ran for county commissioners, but made a poor showing.

RAID

OF GERMAN SQUADRON IN THE NORTH SEA INTENDED FOR THE COAST.

Fight in Which British Submarine Was Sunk Was at Very Close Quarters.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) London, Nov. 4.—Telegraphing from Yarmouth regarding the raid made by a German squadron in the North Sea Tuesday, the correspondent of the Times says:

"The whole of the crew of submarine D-5, which was sunk by a mine dropped by a German cruiser, was lost, except two officers and two men. Four men were saved from the Difter Fraternal, which was also sunk, but six of her men were drowned. The mine drifter Copious was also struck by a mine about the same time as the others and sank. Only one member of her crew was saved and nine were drowned.

"The fight was so close to the shore that some of the shells dropped within a mile of the beach, one exploding within a few hundred yards of the naval air station on the south side of Yarmouth.

"It is believed here that the German raiding squadron intended to bombard the coast."

POLLS KEPT OPEN FOR THREE WEEKS AT FIRST ELECTION

Things were different at the first election of congressmen 125 years ago, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Madison told Washington that over in Jersey they kept the polls open for three weeks in some counties. Nearly everywhere the voting continued for many days. The law did not set a time limit and voters argued and delayed. Fancy what some of our more skillful political managers might have accomplished at the past election could they have had the ballot boxes available for a fortnight!

Some men whom we now look back upon as important characters of the Revolutionary period were defeated for congress at that first trial. Thus old Samuel Adams "fell outside the breastworks."

New York state didn't cast a vote for the first president of the United States, and during most of the original session of congress she had no senator. In nearly every respect that initial presidential and congressional election was far less satisfactory and represented a much smaller percentage of the men of voting age than will the election held yesterday.

Although Washington was chosen president, the voters didn't know they were electing him. What they did was to choose uninstructed electors who were free to name any man they favored. But the sentiment of America was such that without direct orders from the voters every one of

THE NERVES AND THEIR NEEDS

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain. Try to reach a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood. You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is caused by an acid in the blood. The blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous irritation and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of St. Vitus' dance. The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it today. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Congressman William A. Ashbrook has been elected by a substantial majority over Judge Walter A. Irvine of Knox county. From incoming returns in Licking county early this morning, Mr. Ashbrook estimated that he would carry the county by 2200. An Advance Telegram from Mansfield says Ashbrook has 1768 to Irvine's 1294 in 16 precincts of Richland county. The count is slow in Knox county, but neither Ashbrook nor Irvine will have a large majority in Knox. Ashland from morning reports indicates a majority of 1200 for Ashbrook, while Coshocton will give Ashbrook a majority of 500 or more, it is reported.
